

Contents

Acknowledgements 7

Introduction 10

Kingship in the postcolony 12

Theoretical outlook 15

Book outline 17

I Divinity and exchange

1. The great ancestors 27

Blood, spirit, destiny, and spiritual backing 27

The black stools 30

Encompassed election 32

Ancestral sanction 35

Chiefly marriage 37

Keeping the great names: marriage and reincarnation 38

Distributing the great names: marriage and exchange 45

2. Sacrifice and authority 52

Sacralizing political structures? 53

'Emergence through gift' 57

Chiefly sacrifice 59

Spirits as exchange partners 61

Sacrifice and politics 66

II Secularization

3. Conversion to citizenship 75

Missionary Christianity as a modern religion 76

Early contact 79

All-embracing fetish 83

Conversion 86

Separating religion and politics 89

Christian citizens 91

- 4. A liberal kingdom? 94
 - Colonial folk models 95
 - The liberal in the feudal 98
 - Secular origins? 102
- 5. From politics to culture 110
 - 'Comrade chief' 111
 - Chieftaincy and national culture 115
 - Culture and religion 118
- 6. Toward a neoliberal kingdom? 122
 - Chiefs and civil society 123
 - King of the World Bank 125

III Problems of purification

- 7. Witchcraft as the residue of religion 137
 - Witches, gods, and angels 138
 - Investigating a cult 143
 - Public witchcraft 147
 - Witchcraft as a human rights issue 148
 - Hybrid laws 152
- 8. Gods and Coup D'États 154
 - Ritual and politics in post-colonial society 155
 - Powerful people 157
 - Revolutionary violence 158
 - Secular revolution? 161
 - Dreams of revolution 162
 - Christian soldier 166

Conclusions 170

- References 175
- Abstract 195
- Index of Names 197
- Index of Subjects 199